Today, racism, is probably more like fascism in that it is more socially-based, economically-based, and less ethnically-based.

“Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men. Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.”

ROMANS 12:17-21 (KJ)

White Male Backlash, Part Two. Please Read Part One, International Daily Devotional Archives, Saturday, 8, November 2008. This devotional is related to the American election in 2008. May the Lord Christ Jesus bless and keep you and your family in the innermost parts of His Bosom until His Coming, by the Power of His Blood. Selah and Amen.

Many of you became angry with me because of the American election series devotional. Many of you viewed my comments as being negative towards President Obama. Unknown to you, I e-mail, President Obama at least once a month. Some of the information in those devotionals were designed to get more security for Mr. Obama and to enlighten you. Some of the information as in many of our devotionals is designed to get you to think; not to react negatively, but to think and not be so passive. In this television era in which we live, many of us have been programmed to receive and not think. After the election, I've heard commentators or their guests on Radio Free Georgia comment, talk around the fact, that I said comments which they didn't agree with, without naming eBlessings or my name. That is okay, I understand many lack understanding and or spirituality. I was born in 1955, and yesterday I turned 55 years of age; therefore, I grew up during the 60's, when racism was rampant. Many of the young people today have no idea what racism is; especially not institutional racism. Many of you know what it is, but haven't really experienced it. I know what it is and have experienced it. I'm from North Carolina. Know this, if you do not already know it. Racism these days is a lot more sophisticated, and under the table; it is really not racism anymore, because it is socially-based, economically-based, and less ethnically-based. So this is not really racism; it is probably more like fascism.

I was wrong in saying that there would be a white male backlash after the American Election of 2008. I was wrong. And you may say I was wrong, or am wrong about a great many things. I say, "Wait and see." But this is what I am talking about now. We are in the middle of not a white male backlash, but a white male and female backlash. It seems that society is doing what AC Brown speaks about in his book; that people are more responsive to females than they are to males. Therefore, the Republican Party has placed Sarah Palin, as the ramrod for the American white male backlash. You may have heard of the Tea Party movement. This is the vehicle for the American white backlash designed to play on the fears of the general white public, who are disenfranchised with the American fat cat robber baron's bureaucratic, irresponsibility, "take what you can get, while you can, and run with it," unaccountable Wall Street mentalists and their attitudes towards America and her people in general, both Black, White, Asian and Mexican.

“O LORD, thou knowest: remember me, and visit me, and revenge me of my persecutors; take me not away in thy longsuffering: know that for thy sake I have suffered rebuke. Thy words were found, and I did eat them; and thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart: for I am called by thy name, O LORD God of hosts.” Jeremiah 15:15-16 (KJ)

This is a true story. Mrs. Jane Elliott, an eBlessings outreach partner, a professional Marimbist, another friend whose name I will not name and myself were having lunch at the Golden Corral in Snellville, Georgia. We were finishing our meal, laughing and joking and having a great time, as per our usual. Ms. Elliott decided to talk about politics. I have told her time and time again, that we should not talk politics because she does not have a great love for President Obama. In fact, I believe she loathes him.

In any event, Mrs. Elliott and I have had many conversations concerning President Obama, and to put it nicely, we never did see eye-to-eye on any points concerning him. However, it is Elliott on this day, who railed on and on concerning the negativity's of his administration. Well, the third party at the table was not going to allow this to happen. So needless to say, they had something to say about the Republicans, who put America in its economic mess, their irresponsibility, and how they were sorry that as a black American, black Americans could not as a single voting block have voted Mr. Obama into office.

Well that one single statement, that last statement baffled Mrs. Elliott. Why did it confuse her, you may ask? Because all of the dogma she has heard from Republican talk show hosts on radio and on television suggested to her that there are enough Black people in America to have voted President Obama into office. So Mrs. Elliott thought for sure, that Black people as a single voting block of voters, voted Mr. Obama into office. There could be nothing further from the truth; that's to give you some idea concerning the lies of these right-wing anti-American wing nuts and their theology—did I say theology—oh, politics.

So Mrs. Elliott looked over to me and asked me, is that true? I said, "Yes, Mrs. Elliott, there are not enough Black voters to have voted President Obama into office. White people voted him into office." She was baffled and confused; and she looked the part. Unknown to us, people in the surrounding tables in this small Georgia town, heard our conversation. And of course, everyone talking at our table knew this. I on the other hand, as soon as Mrs. Elliott went into politics, I said aloud how I was having no part of this conversation. "This conversation belongs in the vehicle or in the home, not in public," I said to her. So I leaned back in my seat, my stomach field with Golden Corral food and watched the spectacle.

But there was no spectacle; not until we tried to leave. Now the waitresses at the Golden Corral in Snellville, Georgia can attest to this as being true. As well as the cashiers on the afternoon shift. Ms. Elliott can hardly see and has difficulty hearing, therefore, when she goes anywhere with me, our arms are interlocked as I help her walk and not stumble. As we get about 15 feet from the entrance, here comes a young 34-year old Gwinnett County police officer. His eyes are focused on Mrs. Elliott. I look into his face and realize he is quite seriousminded. He looks directly at Mrs. Elliott and says, “Mrs. Elliott are you okay?” I answer, “Yes, she’s fine.” The officer responds, “I’m not talking to you, I’m talking to Mrs. Elliott.” Continuing to look at her as he talks, “I need to know from Mrs. Elliott, if she is okay.” Well at this comment, I’m taken aback. But I don’t get upset, because I come from North Carolina and have seen racism, face-to-face. So now, I’m watching the scene, as I am included in it. This could really turn out badly for me if Mrs. Elliott does not realize that he is serious and not joking.

The young man continues, “Mrs. Elliott are you okay.” Mrs. Elliott thinks this is comical, and she says she is fine. Because we are, you see, are in a jovial mood as we are filled with food and good times. The officer, says, as he looks to me, “I had to ask Mrs. Elliott, because I was sitting in the car outside of the restaurant and I got a call from headquarters. The call said that there was a woman, an elderly woman inside who was looking distressed and confused, and that she was sitting with two African-Americans. And the person who called in the report thought that she may have been in trouble.” So I told him, that we have come to the restaurant about once a week for months now. And that Mrs. Elliott was not distressed nor in any trouble. We smile. He smiled, and we continued out of the Golden Corral restaurant with the officer now in our group. I was smiling, he was smiling, Mrs. Elliott was smiling, and the woman in our party was also smiling. But inside I was incredulous, that in 2010, racism continues to exist in America.

We waved goodbye to the officer, who was really quite friendly. I don’t remember his name at this time, but he was a nice young man. And I told him I understood fully that he had to do what he had to do, because he had gotten a call concerning Mrs. Elliott. And truly I do understand. I would have done the same thing if I was in his shoes. But the person who made the call was absolutely wrong, and was exercising the “Tea Party” mentality. Remember, vengeance is the Lord’s. Allow Him to have it.
